

Somebody's Child / Branded Bluegrass

Branded Bluegrass has loaded up their latest project, Somebody's Child, with a wide variety of story songs that hit the heart and the soul. The band is well-known for its traditional sound but can also push the envelope of bluegrass' musical boundaries. Somebody's Child's is a 12 song compilation providing a contemporary flavor while still retaining a classic feel.

The project is chock-full of the rich instrumentation which is typical for Branded Bluegrass. And it also has a few special guests appearing on some of the tracks, including the work of noted fiddle player Michael Cleveland, and the dynamic vocal harmonies of Shawn Lane.

"The album has been in the works for eternity, but anything worth recording takes time and thought. It has finally been released after 5 years since their last project, Most Welcome", vocalist and mandolinist Tristen Norfleet commented, continuing "I can't explain how excited we are to release new music."

"I was looking to record songs with a story that listeners could relate to. The writers gave us great material, and I am humbled and honored they entrusted us with recording their songs", says vocalist Larry Norfleet.

Two singles have been released, and both songs are accompanied by videos that can be seen on the band's website and on social media outlets. The first is a beautiful story song about a real-life cowboy in Wyoming who was a friend of writer David Stewart and is titled "When Charlie Dreams". The second single to be released is another story song titled "Mama's Kitchen Table" with its home-and-family flavor which resonates with everybody. The band won two "Telly" awards for the video of "When Charlie Dreams", and both songs have charted on the Bluegrass Jamboree charts.
